5.PAYMENT MODALITY

Prices are indicated on the order form, the agreement and / or the training contract. They are net of taxes and duties included, for French clients, CDC Biodiversité is subjected to 20% VAT. The billing and payment terms are specified on the order form. An invoice is sent to the customer at the end of the first training day.

6.PEDAGOGIC MEANS

See the attached training program detailing the means implemented to technically carry out the action, follow its execution and assess its results. A sign-in sheet signed by the trainee(s) and the trainer for each training half-day will prove the performance of the service.

7. LATE PENALTIES AND SANCTIONS IN THE EVENT OF NON-PAYMENT

Any unpaid amount on the due date lead to the payment by the customer of late payment penalties set at three times the legal interest rate in force. These penalties are payable as of right without any reminder on the day following the scheduled payment date. A lump sum compensation of 40 euros is due for recovery costs in the event of late payment, except for natural persons. In the event of full non-payment of a due invoice, after formal notice remains ineffective within 5 calendar days, CDC Biodiversité reserves the right to suspend any ongoing and / or future training. Pursuant to article L.6353-1 of the French Labor Code, a certificate stating the objectives, nature and duration of the action and the results of the evaluation of the learning outcomes of the training will be given to the trainee(s) at the end of the training.

8. NOTIFICATION AND CERTIFICATE OF ATTENDANCE

An e-mail notification indicating the exact location and times of the training is sent to the client. CDC Biodiversité cannot be held responsible for the non-receipt of it by the recipients, in particular in the event of the trainee's absence from a training. A certificate of attendance, established in accordance with the attendance sheets, is sent to the client and / or the trainee after each training.

9. REFUSAL OF ORDER

In the event that a customer places an order without having made payment for previous orders, CDC Biodiversité will be entitled to refuse to honor the order and to deliver the training service concerned, without the customer claiming any compensation.

10. CANCELLATION - POSTPONEMENT - EARLY TERMINATION - ABSENCES

Any cancellation must be the subject of a written request (e-mail, letter).

By the client as a legal person

- When the cancellation request is received by CDC Biodiversité between 30 and 15 calendar days before the start of the training, CDC Biodiversité charges 30% of the total price of the training as compensation.
- In the event that the request is received between 15 and 1 calendar days before the start of the training, CDC Biodiversité invoices 50% of the total price of the training as compensation.
- Any cancellation on the date of the start of the training or no presentation of the trainee results in the invoicing of the total price of the training as compensation.
- Once the training has started, any cancellation or interruption results in the invoicing of the total price of the training minus, where applicable, sums already invoiced and / or paid.
- The sums due by the client as compensation are mentioned as such on the invoice. They can not be set off against the amount of the participation in professional training.

By the customer who is a natural person

- When the cancellation request is received by CDC Biodiversité after the expiry of the withdrawal period and between 30 and 15 calendar days before the start of the training, CDC Biodiversité reserves the right to invoice 30% of the amount of the training.
- In the event that the request is received between 15 and 1 calendar days before the start of the training, CDC Biodiversité reserves the right to charge 50% of the total price of the training as compensation.
- Once the training has started, when, following a duly recognized case of force majeure (unforeseeable event, insurmountable and foreign to the person), the client who is a natural person is unable to continue the training, the contract is automatically terminated and the training services actually provided are invoiced on a prorata temporis of their value provided in the contract. In the absence of force majeure, once the training has started, any cancellation, abandonment or interruption results in the invoicing of the total price of the training.
- The sums due by the client as compensation are mentioned as such on the invoice.

By CDC Biodiversité

- CDC Biodiversité reserves the right to cancel or postpone a training session if the minimum number of participants is not reached.
- In the event of cancellation by CDC Biodiversité, nothing is charged to the customer.
- In case of postponement, CDC Biodiversité proposes new dates: if the client accepts them, the training will be billed to him as planned; if the customer refuses them, no invoicing will take place.
- In the event of early termination of the training by CDC Biodiversité for a reason beyond its control, the contract is automatically cancelled and the training services actually provided are invoiced in proportion to their contract value.
- In all cases, the cancellation or postponement of the training course cannot give rise to the payment of damages and interest.

11. INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

CDC Biodiversité is the only owner of the intellectual property rights over all the training courses it offers to its clients. All educational content and materials in whatever form - paper, digital, in particular the GBS software and databases used in the GBS - used for training belong exclusively to CDC Biodiversité. Any use, representation, full or partial reproduction, translation, transformation and, more generally, any use not expressly authorized by CDC Biodiversité is illegal and may give rise to civil and / or penal actions on the basis of the intellectual property code. The use by the client of the R packages presented in the training is subject to the purchase of the appropriate license. Under no circumstances may these packages be used or kept by the client after the training without holding a license.

12. APPLICABLE LAW - COMPETENT COURTS

All disputes relating to sales of goods and services concluded by CDC Biodiversité, as well as to the application or the interpretation of this agreement, are governed by French law. Any dispute relating to training contracts or agreements will be the subject of prior consultation in order to settle it amicably, failing that the most diligent part will refer to the competent court.
